

Greetings from Tier Tech International!

This quarter, we have been focused on developing customized curriculum, designing and delivering impactful trainings and exercises, and implementing our Strategic Design Approaches (SDA) for our clients nationwide. We're excited to share two recent SDA success stories below, including a spotlight on a member of the TTI team demonstrating how our SDA can be used to tackle everyday problems in our communities.

We are grateful for our team and all our partners with whom we get to work in solving the nation's most complex problems, and we look forward to what's in store for the rest of 2025.

SDA Training

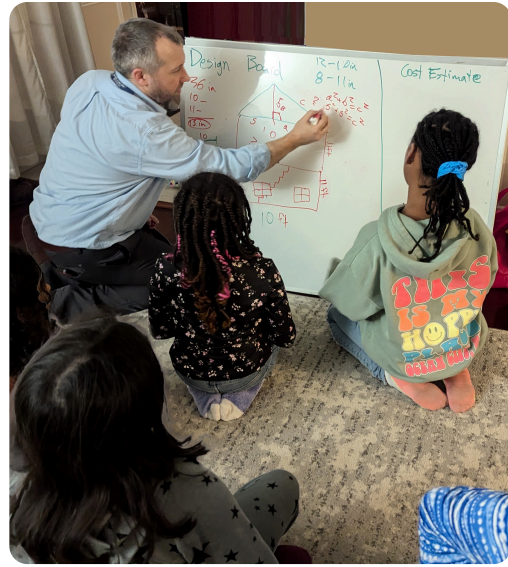

Recently a team from TTI instructed a group of 25+ national security professionals on key Strategic Design Approaches (SDA), a suite of methodologies designed to mitigate risk, align resources, shape the environment, and develop opportunities for action.

TTI Spotlight

We believe our Strategic Design Approaches are the best out there. We use them to solve big problems for our clients, but they can be used in many ways.
